"It is simply a matter of depreciation. All public service corporations operating in Atlanta make a service charge, but there never has been one for the waterworks department. It seems to me that the borough government ought to take some means of raising what I think is an emergency fund. Unless Grady functions properly and efficiently, the entire public suffers—those who are least able to care for themselves are the ones who suffer most in such a condition. Our schools are sadly in need of additional finances.

"At the present there are conference committees out attempting to find a solution of the financial problem facing the schools. So far as I am able to learn a service charge on water is the only legal and economical way open to increase receipts."

Statement by Hale Presages Bitter Fight Should Treaty BeDrawn Under Plan.

U. S. AND BRITAIN IN CLOSE ACCORD

Announcement Made by MacDonald Reveals Unanimity on All Major

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.-(P)-The administration's proposal for naval parity with Great Britain as set forth in a statement at London by Secretary Stimson was vigorously assailed today by Chairman Hale, of the senate naval committee. This was the first public statement here on the merits of the Stimson roposal, coming as it did from the head of the big navy group in the senate, which put through the 15-cruiser bill a year ago, it resounded around the capital.

The Maine senator confined his attack to the cruiser section of the Stimson suggestions, asserting that this "manifestly does not provide for our American naval needs." He predicted that should a treaty be negotiated along the lines set forth by the American secretary of state, "the whole matter will be thoroughly threshed out on the floor of the senate and its committees before final action is taken on ratification."

The senator's statement follows: "The Stimson offer involves very radical changes in the position heretofore taken by the navy department and the United States government that our further cruiser demands call for vessels of the maximum tonnage and armament allowed under the Washington treaty.

Does Not Provide. "If our policy has been the correct one in the past, and if nothing has occurred to change the wisdom of that policy, then the Stimson offer, which contemplates the building of at least 11 6-inch gun cruisers at an additional cost over the 15-cruiser program of at least $58,000,000, while giving us substantial parity in the types of

At Georgia Banned. ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 7.—(P)— Co-ed students at the University of Georgia will not be allowed to smoke in university buildings and sorority houses, administration officials said here today. This announcement came after members of the women's student council yesterday adopted a "smoking amendment" to the university and student council rule barring girls from smoking. It was said about 50 of the 450 women students enrolled in the university attended the meeting. The change was adopted by a 30 to 16 vote. Under the proposal co-eds would have been allowed to smoke in girls' rest rooms on the Franklin college side of the campus. The dean of women has said several girl students have told her they are opposed to girls smoking in the university or anywhere else. College authorities said not more than 30 co-eds smoked. Plant Industry Head Visitor at Montezuma MONTEZUMA, Ga., Feb., 7.—William Braddy, representing the National Bureau of Plant Industry is in Montezuma seeking the co-operation of the fruit growers in an effort to control the phoney peach menace in the orchards. It is pointed out that this disease is found mostly in the older trees and one grower stated today that he has an orchard of 5,000 trees which is affected and will have to be taken up. Growers are signing up with Mr. Braddy for the removal of the phoney trees from the orchards later in the spring when they are in foliage and the diseased trees can be easily detected.

carefully hidden in a woodland near here.

While a passenger in the airplane Chief Miller spied the still, and probably made a mental note to stop its activities at the first opportunity. Soon thereafter an empty gasoline tank brought the plane to earth.

Chief Miller, gathering around him members of the county police force, decided no time could be better than the present for a raid, and the party of officers destroyed a 1,200-gallon box still the chief had seen from the air. No arrests were made.

MACON. Ga., Feb. 7:-(A)-Judge Malcolm D. Jones, of Bibb superior court, today signed an order allowing amendments to the 100-year-old charter of Mercer University here. The amendments are designed to reorganize the institution's methods of administration, it is stated.

The order was signed after 30 days' tition for the amendments, authorized by the last session of the Georgia Baptist convention, was filed here on January 7. It was brought in the name of the executive committee of the Georgia Baptist convention.

Judge Jones' order will give authority, among other things, to limit the members of the board of trustees to a term of five years, and create an endowment commission to be elected by the board, but from without its membership.

The purpose of the amendments, it is said, is to pave the way for the university's expansion, bringing about conditions under which it will be easbership.

STOP LABOR BOOTLEGGING.

The subject of bootlegging labor borders is again being debated in calves had chewed them. the congress. It ought not to be debated for an hour. The highest interests of the vast laboring poputhat alien snipers, illegally sneaking across the borders and taking the employments of our citizens, demand that this widespread labor bootlegging should be stopped. Along 3,000 miles of our northern border there are many thousands of American work people walking jobless and needy because Canadians have slopped over into the industries of the States to take their places at lower wages.

Down in the southwest many thousands of American laborers in agriculture, industry and transportion have been sent adrift because their jobs have been given to cheap mongrel Mexicans.

THE CONSTITUTION Ject them to the competition of thousands of aliens who are illegally in the country and are degrading the standards and morale of American labor and living.

There are imperative reasons for applying the immigration quotas rigidly to Canada and Mexico, for locating and deporting alien laborers illegally in the country, and for enacting the Patman bill to make it a federal misdemeanor to knowingly employ anyone who has illegally entered the United States. Those are only just protections to our own lawful citizens.

AFTER THE "FLESH POTS."

Over in Augusta, also, the city government is upset as the result of councilmanic politics.

Ward bosses and their interests seem to be determined to override the general welfare. The political plan of "addition, division and subtraction" has brought the finances of the city into the red and loans are necessary to keep the municipal wheels oiled and moving.

But the banks from which the loans are to be gotten, as in Chicago and Atlanta, refuse to risk any more money upon the hazard of ward politics.

It is tough tripe for the citizens but they must chew it until they apply the remedy.

The trouble in Augusta arises out of the effort of council to take back into its own hands the function It has been a standing policy of which it was glad to place into the

THE WORLD'S WINDOW BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Poverty of Language.

Over in Saint Jacques du Moulin an insignificant hamlet about 30 miles from Parls as the crow flies, due north-west, there is a parish church dating from the year 1290. Some crusaders lie huried in the crypt under the transcept. In spite of its age the church is by no means in a ruinous state; the peasants having always been prosperous enough to donate a penny or so for its upkeep. Under a winter day's sun the stunted and moss-covered tower seen from a certain distance looks a broken pillar covered with a gloss of emerald. The population of soil-tillers, about two hundred souls, seldom leaves the precincts of the commune. Some of them have never been as far as Paris, notwithstanding the fact that the lacy silhouette of the Eiffel Tower, which can be seen in Saint Jacques on clear days, must have served them as a sort of standing invitation to come to the capital. One of the most venerable of the inhabitants is the Abbe Petit Mercade, the 89-year-old parish priest who was born on an old seigneurial farm in the neighborhood. Since we ran into the church one day last year to escape a sudden summer day's drenching, and there met the abbe, we have paid a visit to his preshyfery now and then. He is an affable host and an extremely lucid spirit who looks upon the phenomena of his time with the calm aloofness of a philosopher. Then there is always a bottle of country wine, too, which the abbe goes to fetch, in spite of remonstrances, armed with a huge silver candlestick. We walked to St. Jacques nct long ago on a nippy day to wish the abbe a happy new year. While the old "servante" came in with two steaming tumblers of piping hot wine on the bottom of which lay some lumps of sugar, like so many purple crystals, a most capital remedy, by the war, against colds, rheumatism, melan insignificant hamlet about 30 miles from Parls as the crow flies, due of sugar, like so many purple crystals, a most capital remedy, by the way, against colds, rheumatism, melancholy and early death, the abbe observed as he seated himself by the cheerful logfire that he had lately cheerful logfire that he had lately been meditating on the poverty of language. "From my window here, when the frost-flowers in the morning thaw out," he said, "I watch the sparrows, those humblest of the Lord's canticlers. And I discovered that they have at least three different kinds of calls; one to lament the scarcity of food in winter, another to call attention to danger, and still another when tion to danger, and still another when the neighbor's cat catches one of its young. And yet there is not a language in the world which is so rich as to possess words to denote these different sounds. True," he added, "I only know two languages: French and only know two languages: French and Latin. But then that is enough. For they are the key to all others, except those spoken by the barbarians. As to English," went on the abbe, "what is Engleesh but French badly spoken?"

Anatole

A French magazine recently asked a dozen or so of the most prominent writers in France whether, in their opinion, the work of Anatole France merited the attention of posterity. The replies received must greatly as The replies received must greatly astonish France's admirers in America whose number is legion. M. Paul Morand thought Anatole France "an old collector of secondhand chasubles, no more." Andre Maurois did not think the author of Pinquin Island deserved any further attention. Joseph Deltheil said: "You read France, but you never reread him." Then there was Blaise Cendrars, a contemporary poet who wrote that France was a Congressman Celler is a Brooklyn democrat, without a biography

It is another common observation that some children who have been exposed to such diseases and yet have not come down with them seem to have some immunity which protects them ever afterward. This we have found it difficult to account for; accordingly, we have ascribed it to inherited immunity, or sometimes to herited immunity, or sometimes to immunity acquired by the infant from the mother's breast. But Dr. F. M. Pottenger, the tuberculosis specialist, suggests another explanation. Citing the fact that infection with tuberculosis may occur without the host's being aware of it or manifesting any ing aware of it or manifesting any symptoms or signs of illness at the time, he infers that children may be infected with such diseases as measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever or diph-

Senator Capper thinks the London parley is "a milestone to peace" but what the world needs is the end of the road.

The W. C. T. U. claims that prohibition has saved several thousand lives—probably by the refusal of that many persons to drink bootleg liquor.

In fected with such diseases as measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever or diphenced with such small samples, that they manifest none of the usual signs of illness yet have an immunity response, nevertheless, and the immunity thus gained is sufficient to protect them against future infections.

It shoul be clearly understood that we know that the disease tuberculosis is never inherited. An infant may be born lacking the usual degree of natural immunity to tuberculosis, and such a child will be very vulnerable if exposed to the disease. But this must not be confused with "low resistance." nor does it warrant any persons are born with tuberculosis or even the idea that any individual is born doomed to die of tuberculosis, for certainly that is not so. We simply can't inherit tuberculosis; we can only fail to inherit immunity to the disease.

Dr. Pottenger writes: "In tubercu-

The action of the state democratic committees in Alabama and Texas, who have barred from the party primaries this year man, who had served 16 years in the house of congress and 8 years in the house of congress and 8 years in the senate, very naturally outraged the loyal democrats of the state, who have repudiated it by the present disbarment of Senator Heflin.

Now Tom Love wants to run in the democratic primary for the guhernatorial nomination, but the democratic state committee says nay. Love is litigating his right under the state primary law, but it is not believed he will win the case.

It should not be accepted that the state committees of Alabama and Texas have taken their actions for When one is opposed to a contemplate of the party action he should frankly stage his opposition within the party ranks and counsels. If overridden, he should either submit to the decision of the majority, or frankly renounce his allegiance to the party and become either a free-lance or an open fighter with the opposite party.

But to carry opposition into war upon the party and help to compass its defeat—and still claim party membership and the right to contest for future party leadership, is to violate every canon of political fidelity, sportsmanship and common justice.

The right of a party to the faithful following and power of its accredited members is superior to the right of the individual to blow her oveld for the purpose of revenging Governor Smith or persons who opposed him. To act in such a spirit would not afford any practical satisfaction to Governor Smith or prove any corrective punishment of Heflin or Love. While the Stimson and MacDonald declarations have clarified the atmosphere of the London conference, one outstanding point of difference in the two national viewpoints—that is, on the question of aircraft carriers—was attracting considerable attention, the American delegation said tonight.

A new cabin plane for the use of the Davis Airlines between Atlanta and Birmingham, which opens February 15, arrived at Candler field Friday afternoop. It was a Travelair from Wichita, Kan.

The committee, of which Mrs. Mohr is chairman, possibly will form the nucleus of the club. This committee is composed of four members, all of whom have taken flying lessons. They are Mrs. Mohr, Mrs. A. R. Seaman, Miss Madaline Dickerson and Miss Maryland Jordon. All are students of Beeler Blevins except Miss Jordan, who is the Atlanta representative for Interstate Airlines. Contractors on the structure declare that only minor defects have been noted and that these can be corrected as other inspections proceed. They hold that the building will be ready for the acceptance of council at its next meeting slated for February 17.

In the event the structure is accepted at that time, arrangements will be made to begin moving February 22.

Robbers' Arrested

Before Theft Occurs

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—(P)—Police today held Elwin Johnson, 25, and Robert Pollet on charges of conspiracy to commit robbery after Johnson is reported to have admitted that he and Pollet planned to hold up the Broadmoor branch of the Hibernia Bank & Trust Company tomorrow.

Officers, informed that a robbery was being planned, arrested the men late last night as they stepped out of an automobile. Two pistols were found concealed in their car and later Johnson took officers to his home and showed them a sawed-off shotgun, a red handkerchief and a quantity of ammunition.

Children Burn While

WESTFIELD. Mass., Feb. 7.—(A)
Three young children of Mr. and Mrs.
Ralph Dorman lost their lives in their burning home today. They had been left for a few minutes by their mother, who had gone to a neighbor's to use the telephone.

The children were Mary, aged 3 years; Frank, 2 years, and Roy, 4 months. All three were found hudduled on a bed in a room near the kitchen. Mrs. Dorman left the three playing while she went to the neighbor's home. A little later another daughter, Blanche, aged 4, who had been in another room, discovered that the kitchen was ablaze. She ran screaming to the home of the neighbor. The mother rushed home, but was unable to gain entrance because of the rapid spread of the flames. By the time the firemen arrived the building was all ablaze.

It is believed that the children in some manner pulled live coals from the kitchen stove, causing the fire.

Two older children were away at school.

Almost at the same time a senate committee was 'pproving a senate bill providing for an entirely different sort of commission to have charge of the state's roads.

Under the bill approved in the house, the present eight elective commissioners who serve without pay, would be stripped of all powers and another commission of three elected from three highway districts to earry on the road program.

The senate bill now resting under a favorable committee report, provides for abolition of the present highway commission and appointment by the governor, with the consent of the house and senate, of a commission of four members.

Martin Hews, a legless cripple, lives in a huge sluister house, where his art treasures are hidden from the world. When such treasures are not purchasable, he employs criminals to get them for him. His chief enemy is Joseph, the mysterious leader of a band of thieves in London. A beautiful girl, named Rachel, in whom Joseph is interested, has deserted him and is now living in the Hews mansion under the cripple's protection. She has displayed some fondness for Hews's bodyguard, Major dwston, who tells the story. The only other woman in the house is Beatrice Essiter, Hews's niece, who knows all of her uncle's secrets.

"Don't be silly," my visitor begged contemptuously. "You know who I am, right enough. I am Joseph. You can't seem to be able to lay your hand on me, so I've come to see you. I don't like the way you're drawing your knees up. If you move as much as a foot, I'll let daylight into you." I decided to wait for a better opportunity to assert myself. In the meantime I watched my visitor keenly. Already two things had struck me. First that his cockney accent seemed scarcely natural; secondly that the dirty and neglected state of his hands was a little overdone. Underneath some smudges of black, I could see remarkably well-manicured nails. "You want to know what I'm after, I suppose. I'll tell you. I came after my girl. If I'd found her here, you'd have been stiff by now. Where is ahe?" "Search the place, if you think she's "A nice chance that would give you, wouldn't it?" he murmured. "No, Major, I've been in both the other rooms. You've saved your skin for a few minutes. I've got another bone to pick with you though. You're Martin Hewa's new man, aren't you? You're after me, they say."

"And, so far as that is concerned." I replied. "I shouldn't be surprised, Joseph, if I didn't get you."

"An excellent nerve," he remarked approvingly. "I suppose you realize that your life is wobbling in the balance. I may pull this trigger at any second."

ried to Grady hospital, where she soon was dismissed.

According to Sam Allen, a deputy clerk of court, the woman asked him to show her a charter application filed for the Order of Night Owls. When the application papers were produced, she said that her name, Eula Mae Hazen, had been used as one of the incorporators without authority, and to have made an ineffectual attempt to tear the page out, Mr. Allen said. John G. Slappey, attorney, who filed the application for incorporation, said that Henry C. Burkhardt and Clarence E. Chapman, two of the incorporators, had turned the application over to him with the request that it be filed in court, and that they said that. Brady Murder Jury Deadlocked 70 Hours

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 7 .- (P)-After deliberating more than 70 hours, the jury in the case of John W.

Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28-year-old stenographer, still was deadlocked tonight.

With a verdict apparently only a remote possibility, District Judge J. D. Moore intimated he had no intention of discharging the jury soon.

Watchers who from time to time peered into the jury chamber from across the street reported four or five jurors standing at the windows, disheveled and tired, idly looking out.

Henry Brooks, district attorney, who prosecuted the former civic appeals court judge for the knife slaying of Miss Highsmith, walked about the courthouse impatiently.

Only Judge J. D. Moore seemed to have any hope that the jury would eventually agree on the question of whether Brady was sane when he stabbed the woman, CHATTERER JUMPS TO A CONCLUSION. By Thorton W. Burgess.

By Thorton W. Burgess.

Who to conclusions blindly jumps Should be prepared for many bumps.
—Old Mother Nature.

To jump to a conclusion is to make up your mind in regard to something without really knowing the facts. It is to think that a thing is thus or so. Chatterer the Red Squirrel saw a black feather floating down from high up in a tree in which was the old nest of Blacky the Crow. The Chatterer saw more than that black feather. By looking very sharply he made out a dark form well hidden by the green branches of the hemlock tree from which the feather had fallen. Instantly Chatterer knew that he was looking at Hooty the Owl. A moment later his attention was caught by a slight movement just back of the by a slight movement just back of the nest.

"Mrs. Hooty!" exclaimed Chatterer under his breath. "This is no place for me." He looked down. He saw more black feathers on the ground at the foot of that tree. They were feathers of a Crow. There was no question about that. Chatterer turned and taking care to make no sound. ed and, taking care to make no sound, he stole back until he had the trunk of the tree between him and Hooty and Mrs. Hooty. Then he ran down the trunk of the tree to the ground and Mrs. Hooty. Then he ran down the trunk of the tree to the ground and scampered as fast as he could to another big tree. By this time he was sure he hadn't been seen; so then he started for home through the treetops as fast as he could go.

It was when Chatterer reached home and felt wholly safe that he began to think things over and so jumped to a conclusion. "Blacky the Crow is dead." said Chatterer to himself very solemnly. "Those feathers I saw were Blacky's feathers. That was Blacky's nest over there and Hooty the Owl. or Mrs. Hooty, caught and killed Blacky. Of course, it might be Mrs. Blacky; but somehow I feel sure it was Blacky, but somehow I feel sure it was Blacky. My, my, how we shall miss him in the Green Forest. I never did like him very well, but I'll miss him just the same. It was when Hooty caught Blacky that all those others left in such a hurry. This will be a piece of news. Blacky must have been careless. Yes, sir, Blacky must have been very careless. He has had experience enough with Hooty the Owl to know how to keep out of Hooty's claws. I wouldn't have believed it."

Now, without thinking, Chatterer had been talking to himself aloud. "What is it you wouldn't have believed?" asked Sammy Jay, who had came up just in time to hear Chatterer's last words.

sharply.
"I said your cousin, Blacky the Crow, is no more," repeated Chat-

"What do you mean by 'no more'?" inquired Sammy.
"I mean," replied Chatterer, "that you'll never see him again."
"Why won't I ever see him again?"

"Why won't I ever see him again?" persisted Sammy.
"Because," replied Chatterer, "he is inside Hooty the Owl. He was caught and eaten by Hooty."
Sammy stared long and hardy at Chatterer. "Who told you all this?" he demanded. "I don't believe a word of it. Who told you all this?" "Nobody," replied Chatterer. "If you want to see Blacky's feathers, I can tell you where you can find them."

Ford at Florida Home For Edison Birthday

custom of 15 years he walked two miles from a sidetrack through the city to his modest winter home, next door to the Edison estate.

Ford ignored a waiting automobile and walked straight through town to Edison's laboratory, where he stopped to greet the silver haired inventor before entering his own home for the first time since last February.

The motor magnate's first thought was for Edison, whose memory he has perpetuated through a permanent museum of Edisonla at Dearborn.

He spent an hour in the inventor's workshop, where he has a workbench of his own, inspecting a miniature model plant by which the inventor plans to produce commercial rubber from goldenrod.

Ford will be present to watch the first run of rubber through a series of airtight boilers and force pumps.

Although President Hoover, the fourth member of the Old Cronic Club, will soon be fishing in Florida, it is not expected he will attend the Edison birthday party this year.

The Work of Frederick Mulhaupt | Perennial Club To Be Discussed by Mr. Skidmore Makes Plans For

With a view to affording interesting sidelights on the exhibit of Frederick Mulhaupt, of Gloucester, Mass., which is being shown in the auditorium gallery of the High Museum of Art; Lewis Skidmore, director, will deliver a lecture on "The Life and Work of Frederick Mulhaupt" at 30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. February 9, at the museum. Mr. Skidmore's familiarity with the marine scenes which comprise the greater part of the collection of 26 oil paintings will render the talk of exceptional interest.

This lecture will be one of a series of such informal illustrated talks which have been given at the museum Sunday afternoons throughout the winter, affording interest and helpful demonstrations in the various branches of art. Talks on marlonettes, sculpture, Gothic art, tapestries, painters of the old and modern school have been included in these lectures. As many as several hundred persons have visited the museum during the afternoon.

Mr. Mulhaupt, who will be featured in the talk Sunday afternoon, is one of the outstanding artists of America.

Plans for the cultivation of the flower garden at the Georgia Childrens' Home, the major project of the Perennial Garden Club, of which Mrs. J. R. Bachman is president, will be perfected at a meeting of that organization to be held at 2 o'clock Mongation to be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, February 3, at the home. The plan of the garden will be laid out and decision made as to the flowers and shrubbery best suited to the plot. Practically every member of the club has donated plants for the garden which, in view of previous preparation of the grounds, which, it is expected, will be one of the most beautiful in the city.

The club which was organized October, 1928, is a member of the Garden Club of Georgia and of the Fifth District Federation of Garden Clubs. There are 24 members of the organization, which has as its purpose the promotion of the garden movement in the city. Officers of the club are: Mrs. J. R. Bachman, president: Mrs. Walter Lamb, recording secretary: Mrs. Arnold Hepp, treasurer, and Mrs. John L. Harper, corresponding secretary.

Where, how and when.

How to report the return of a minor is a subject of frequent inquiry. The revenue act specifically provides that every individual that has a net income of $1,500 or over, depending upon his marital status, shall file a return. However, whether the minor has been emancipated—allowed control of his income—by his parents and the source of the minor's income are material factors in determining how the income shall be taxed. Most minors are unemancipated. In such instances the parent has the legal right to the minor's earnings and must include them in his return.

A minor living in the home of his parent may be emancipated. If the minor pays his board and otherwise supports himself, there is an implied emancipation. The same rule governs if the minor is carrying on a business for himself and the parent exercises no control over his earnings. Emancipation may be expressed or implied, general or limited. However, generally, and in the absence of proof to the contrary, a parent is assumed to have the legal right to the earnings of his minor child, and the minor's earnings are taxable income to the parent.

On the other hand, any income to an unemancipated minor not analogous to earnings, such as interest, dividends, rents, royalties, etc., from a bona fide trust fund or from property possessed by the minor, are not to be included in the parent's return. Instead such income must be reported on a separate return of the minor and be taxed to him as in the case of any individual. The return is to be filed either by the minor on his parent or by the trustees of a trust fund in behalf of the minor.

es came tumbling down like Jack d Jill today after running up at a lively rate. Buying support for the gave out after previous specplative sellers had engaged in a stamde to get away from new risks ariswheat business as well as Buenos heraks in wheat values at Buenos Aires.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to half cent higher. Corn closed unchanged to 1-2c up, oats 1-8c to 1-4c to 3-8c advance, and provisions showing 10c to 12c gain.

Before jumping higher as a result of definite steps being taken to form a wheat stabilization corporation, the wheat trade here showed considerable uncertainty on account of unlooked for transient setbacks in wheat prices at Liverpool. Then came a general rush of buying orders here, and Chicago wheat values rose quickly more than 3c a bushel compared with today's bottom figures. On the price bulges, however, selling broadened out, and in some quarters it was asserted that the emergency measures proposed were in reality a bearish factor as being sensational advertising to the world that the United States has a burdensome wheat surplus to dispose of.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Country offerings of corn were light, and eastern demand fair. Provisions advanced in response to upturns in the value of hogs.

in today's bond market and prices moved moderately higher in the bullish session of the year. Sales crossed the $12,000,000 mark, nearly half a million above yesterday's total.

Time funds were quoted at 4 1-2 per cent for the short maturities and 4 3-4 flat for the longest rates. These figures represented declines of about a quarter per cent. In response to this trend in interest charges, United States government securities traded actively, but finished with some irregularity. The Fourth Liberty loan sold off an eighth on the day, while the Liberty 3 1-2s and the treasury 3 3-8s of 1043-47 made tiny fractional advances:

The industrials were rather neglected and ruled steady. Chile Copper 5s, Goodrich 6 1-2s, Goodyear 5s, Lorillard 7s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s exhibited some vitality, but net changes proved to be inconsequential.
It was another busy day for the French Republic bonds. The 7 1-2s rallied half a point but were unable to hold the gain and had a small net loss. A $200.000 block of these bonds changed hands, swelling the day's volume to about $670.000, par value. The 7s lost 3-8.

Other popular European loans were rather dull and there was evidence of minor profit-taking from the recent advance, apparently on switching operations to domestic issues. British ing the day as a result of trade buy-ing and covering. The lowest prices were reached in the late trading when March sold at 15.05 and October at 15.79, making net declines of 43 to 60 points.

Closing quotations were a point or two up from the lowest on covering.

The selling seemed to come from practically all directions and there was talk of freer spot offerings, which, however, were not definitely confirmed. The decline was again attributed chiefly to a loss of confidence among holders owing to reports of a continued poor trade demand, recently reduced estimates of world's consumption, and the failure of the lower prices to bring in more aggressive support.

DECLINE IS HEAVY
AT NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—(P)—
The cotton market broke into new low grounds for the season today when active positions sold off $2.50 a bale below yesterday's close under extensive liquidation and short selling induced by fears of an increase in acreage. There appeared to be no other influence behind the rather drastic decline which carried March contracts below the 15-cent line to the lowest prices reached in several years. The options sold to 14-85, or 562 points below the high point reached last September. May traded off from 15.79 to 15.08, and closed at 15.15, or 55 points net down. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 50 to 55 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady and the market here opened higher in sympathy. First trades showed gains of 7 to 9 points, but the market turned easier after the start under renewed liquidation and by the end of the first hour active months showed declines of 14 to 18 points from yesterday's close.

For the remainder of the morning and into the early afternoom the market was on the down-grade under continued liquidation and more or less short selling and before the offerings were absorbed all months had traded into new low ground for the season. March traded off to 14.87, May to 15.08 and July 15.31, or 63 to 71 points down from the early highs. The market rallied a few points at the end and last prices showed net losses of from $2.50 to $2.75 a bale. Receipts, 20.205; for week, 102.-205; for year, 7.519.078. Last year, 8.168.178. NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—After an unsuccessful effort to renew an actively constructive trend, prices turned downward again in today's session under the pressure of persistent offerings.

Sentiment with respect to the immediate octlook has turned doubtful. Stock prices, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial averages secred an almost perpendicular advance of 42 points since the middle of December and, regardless of fundamental influences, it is felt that the technical incluences, it is felt that the technical position of the market has been impaired to an extent which would logically call for some correction beyond the minor and very short lived reactions which have been witnessed from time to time during this advance.

FENNER & BEANE,

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—After a small initial upturn on good cables, the market turned weak before the end of the first bour on a renewal of the liquidation and selling movement, and sold down under 15 cents at New Orleans for the first time since April, 1927.

There was very little news to account for heavy selling and liquidating movement except rumors that large interests were heing forced to liquidate some of their holdings. After these rumors get in circulation selling increased considerably, and the market broke hadly, aliling about $3 a bale under yesterday's close.

NASHVILLE.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The market today was very disappointing in face of the better cables and increased trade demand.

After an advance of 10 points on the opening, market sold steadily under a new liquidation. The principal selling seemed to be from the south of cotton sold on call to merchants. The decline caught stop loss orders and selling increased with the day, volume becoming extremely heavy in the last hour. Market closing at the low. 60 down. There is certainly nothing very stimulating in the outlook but we do not think conditions warrant present extreme pessimism. Certainly now urgent selling must be pretty well spent and prices could recover sharply on any favorable news.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Print cloths and sheetings have eased a little following a further decline in cotton on Thursday. Curtailment of production in cotton manufacturing centers is increasing rapidly. Finished goods are selling well in many consuming centers. Burlans are firmer and the spot and affoat markets are stronger. Fine printed rayon merchandise is in steady department. Wool goods are selling in mail quantities, with more interest developing in fall lines. Raw silk was dull. An early settlement of the garment strike is predicted and it will relieve the slow movement of silks and other merchandise to the cutting trades.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The cottonseed oil market closed barely steady and unchanged to 3 points lower. Weakness of cotton promoted scattered liquidation and brought about a reaction after an early advance in sympathy with the further strength in provisions. Confirmation of tailow sales at 7½c and a reaction in grains furthered the late setback. Sales 9.400 harrels. Prime crude 7.42½; prime summer yellow apet 8.45. Eligibility of 4 Prep Court Players Questioned; Pairings Made

A. A. C. AND BULLDOGS MEET TONIGHT

Pairings Are Made for City Tournament February 21 and 22.

By Roy White.

In the pairings drawn Friday night.
Boys' High, Fulton High, Marist and G. M. A. have been placed in the upper bracket with Decatur, Russell, University School and Tech High in the lower bracket. Commercial High, due to no place to practice until a few weeks ago. failed to enter the tournament.

Two games will be played Friday afternoon and two Friday night, with the semi-finals Saturday afternoon and the finals Saturday night.

Tech High and University School will play the first game Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to be followed by G. M. A. and Marist at 3:30 o'clock.

Decatur and Russell will meet in the first might game at 8 o'clock and Boys' High and Fulton will close the first day's program at 9 o'clock.

Tickets will go on sale within a

Tickets will go on sale within a few days at each of the schools and at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Student tickets for each afternoon and night will be 25 cents each and adult tickets will be 50 cents each and adult tickets will be 50 cents each and afternoon ticket Friday is good for both games and the night ticket is good for both games. The same prices will prevail Saturday afternoon and night also.

prevail Saturday afternoon and night also.

Heavy Hammond Tech High guard, Brewer, Boys' High guard; Bothwell, Boys' High forward, and Morgan, University School center, have been questioned and their eligibility will be ruled on at a conference between school officials and members of the fournament committee.

Coach Claude Tolbert, a member of the committee, voluntarily placed Hammond's name on the list to be questioned and stated that the Tech High guard is over the prep league age limit. He also stated that no effort will be made to play Hammond in the tournament and his name will not be sent to the tournament committee as a member of the Tech High team.

are reported to have attended one school and moved to another, violating a migratory rule of the league.

Their status will be ironed out at a conference early next week, when all the schools mail in their tournament ent. ies. It is entirely possible that their names will be left off the entry list, as will that of Hammond, from Tech High.

list, as will that of Hammond, from Tech High.
Should Brewer and Bothwell be ruled ineligible it will be a severe blow to the Boys' High. The Hurricane is leading the prep league with a game to spare and has one of its best teams, but with Bothwell and Brewer out, their strength will be materially their strength will be materially weakened.

Tech High will not suffer from the loss of Hammond, for he has not played in the past three games due to an attack of appendicitis. His place has been filled by Hardy, who has played good in recent games. SUFFERERS.

University, with only a fair team this year will suffer more than the others. Morgan is one of the best players on the Bluebird team and with him out the Bluebirds should be easy for any of the tournament teams.

The question of prep league officials was not brought up at the meeting Friday night. Coach Bean has numerous applications and those will be given due consideration before any announcement will be made. None of the applicants were discussed by the committee.

Son of Ed Walsh

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(49)—The New York Yankees today announced the signing of Robert E. Walsh, son of "Big Ed" Walsh, former ace of the of "Big Ed" Walsh, former ace of the White Sox pitching staff. Young-Walsh, who is 22 years old, six feet, four inches in height and weighs 205 pounds, will report to Manager Shawkey with the first Yankee squad. Since his brother, Ed Walsh, Jr. left the University of Notre Dame to join the White Sox, young Roberthas been a Notre Dame pitching star. Taught many of the tricks of the pitching trade by their accomplished father before they entered college, the two boys have been stars in intercollegiate baseball.

As the crowd moved out of the auditorium Thursday night after the Cleveland professional basketball team had finished playing tag with the Chattanooga Tepcos, many asked:

"Why didn't the Rosenblums play the Atlanta Athletic Club team, anyhow? It would have been a more

With the eligibility of four prep basketball players questioned, plans for the annual city prep basketball tournament to be played on the Atlanta Athletic Club court February 21 and 22 were completed Friday night at a meeting of the tournament committee at the club. Tech High, Boys' High and University School will be affected by the ruling, should the committee decide the players are ineligible.

letic Club team, anyhow? It would have been a more interesting game from a home standpoint."

A gentleman, well informed on sports news and keenly interested in basketball, who never misses conference tournament games, asked me that question directly and I gasped. I told him finally that the Athletic club team was composed of amateurs registered with the A. A. U. and all that.

"Why, I thought they were a professional team," he said somewhat embarrassed.

Then as an after thought he pursued the matter: But why couldn't they have played the Rosen-

That of course brought on talk. The question of amateurism and professionalism is no subject to be discussed while driving through traffic.

LITTLE UNDERSTOOD.

This column is beginning to suspect that the burning question of amateurism and the ramifications of the sports control system of our country are little understood by the average citizen. Nor does the average man worry a great deal about it.

The fine distinctions between amateurs and profes-

The fine distinctions between amateurs and professionals that are so clear to players, coaches and officials are parts of a strange tongue to most folks.

Those connected in one way or another with sports take a lot for granted both in pre-supposing the public understands or is keenly interested.

THEY JUST CAN'T PLAY 'EM.

The Atlanta Athletic Club basketball team is strictly amateur. The club team may play college organizations or teams affiliated with the A. A. U. But they no more could play the Rosenblums or even the non-registered Tepcos than Coach Harry Mehre could play guard on the Georgia football team next fall.

PROPAGANDA NEEDED.

This column is not belittling the institution of amateurism ne whit in this case. This column merely is calling attention one whit in this case. This column merely is calling attention to the fact that

(1) The powers behind amateur sports, and the newspapers, are taking too much for granted in believing that the public understands or is deeply concerned about their doctrines, and (2) educational propaganda on amateur sports is needed in the public press.

Now and then it seems that 90 per cent of the people believe that an amateur athlete is merely one whose salary is Whether or not Morgan, Bothwell and Brewer are eligible, it was not learned Friday night. Morgan is said to have played four years in the prep league, while Bothwell and Brewer are Bothwell and Brewer as the amateurs deserve.

ONE WAY TO DEFEAT THE ENEMY.

The story goes that a few years ago there was a pretty good professional basketball team in Cleveland, Ohio, called the Rosenblums, sponsored by "Daddy" Rosenblum, a wealthy

The Rosies began trimming everything in the middle west, signed a few more star players and challenged the famous New York Celtics, then the unterrified champions of the country.

So Messrs. Lapchick, Barry, Dehnert, Beckman and Holman came into Cleveland and murdered the town team. They tripled the score and then played tag with them. And as soon as he could get rid of existing contracts, "Daddy" Rosenblum hired four of those Celtics. Never would he have a team of his treated like that again.

GOLDEN SILENCE.

"The thing I noticed about the Rosenblum's playing," commented Mr. Lowry Arnold after the game, "was their silence. You never heard the whooping and yelping that college teams use to attract attention of their teammates."

KENTUCKY'S WEAK SPOT.

It would be wasted effort to feel sorry for the Georgia Tech basketball team that is playing the University of Kentucky in Lexington tonight until after the game, Kentucky never has beaten Georgia Tech in basketball. Tech has taken an inferior team into action more than once and emerged in front.

Coach Mauer, of Kentucky, told Atlanta friends recently that he did not mind playing Georgia or Alabama or Washington and Lee or Tennessee, but he dreaded the game with Geor-Signed by Yanks gia Tech. The Yellow Jackets, it seems, have the Kentuckians collective goat.

ROBIN ALLIANCE

Dobbs Plans To "Stand on His Own" This Season.

By Ralph McGill.

Settlement of the Brooklyn base-ball war has not changed the Cracker attitude toward a major league al-liance. There will probably be none. This was the announcement from Cracker office yesterday which indi-cates that Dobbs will carry on with the policy he inaugurated at Birming-ham last year when he won the South-ern Association pennant and the Dixie series without any help from a major league club.

FAVORED AT FIRST.

Dobbs had previously announced that he favored such a policy but said that he was willing to work with Brooklyn provided that club would settle its differences and permit Wilbert Robinson, the manager, to have some freedom in the disposal of players.

Last season the Cracker agreement with Brooklyn was not satisfactory. When the Macedonian crywent up from the Cracker camp in August Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson was entirely helpless. The Ebbets heirs, half owners of the Brooklyn club, always had a very loud "beef" ready when Robinson turned loose a player.
"WAR" ABOUT OVER.

"WAR" ABOUT OVER.

"In the meantime, however," said the Cracker official, "Dobbs and I have about decided not to have any agreement at all. I won't say that we will not. There is no telling what will come up. But I don't think we will.

will.

"We will expect to get Parham from Brooklyn in the event he fails to stick with the Dodgers. Robinson promised that because we let them have Parnam at a loss of $15,000, Pittsburgh having offered $25,000 for Parham. We had already pledged Brooklyn Parham and kept our word. This is all outside any "agreement" and if we get Parham it will not mean that we have formed "agreement" and if we get Parham it will not mean that we have formed any alliance with Brooklyn."

Cracker directors have about come to the conclusion that Johnny Dobbs' plan, announced some time ago, is the proper one for Atlanta to adopt. Dobbs declared that his experience at New Orleans, Birmingham and Memphis led him to believe that the large cities in the Southern association should work independently of major league clubs.

DEPEND ON "GATE."

brepend on "GATE."

"The large cities must depend on their power at the gate to make money and not on the development of players to give major league clubs in exchange for aid during the season," said Dobbs in discussing his plan a short time ago. "The large cities can purchase their own players and develop enough young ones to come within the rookie rule. I did not get any help from major league clubs last year at Birmingham," said Dobbs. I had one player but I let him go after he had hurt more than he helped. For two years previously I had worked with Washington. It was then I found that they were getting a great deal more out of it than Birmingham. Washington got several hundred thou. Washington got several hundred thou. more out of it than Birmingham. Washington got several hundred thousand dollars worth of ball players in exchange for some they let us have during the season. I will never be in favor of a major league agreement as long as I am with a club that can pay its way at the gate as can Atlanta."

OF GAME; CLUB LEAVES TODAY Coach Bean Drills Men Hard for Battle After Tech Loss.

ATHENS SCENE

After a long light workout Friday night, Coach Joe Bean and his Atlanta Athletic Club basketball teamwere ready for the battle with the Bulldogs tonight in Athens, Ga. Coach Bean and 12 players will leave the city at 11 o'clock this morning and will meet the Georgia team in Woodruff Hall tonight.

Georgia and A. A. C. have been rivals on the court for many years and the battle this year should be one of the best in their history. Georgia has a fast and much-improved team, one which defeated the Jackets twice this season and one which has lost only two games thus far.

A. A. C., after a run of 18 co A. A. C., after a run of 15 consecu-tive victories dating back to the first of the 1929 season, Coach Bean's team was forced to lower its colors last Tuesday night to a much improved Georgia Tech team, only three days after the Jackets had dropped a close affair to Georgia in Athens.

There has been nothing but hard work in the A. A. C. gymnasium this week and the regulars have been put through a series of hard scrimmages. The reserves played a much better game Tuesday night against Tech than did the varsity in the second half.

Four collegians, Stumpy Thomason, Mike Hudson, Frank Player, former Tech basketball stars and Cy Bell, the Oglethorpe flash, play on the reserve team and were leading Tech at the half last Tuesday night, when the varsity took up the burden.

Those collegians are expected to get into the game tonight and it should resemble another of those Georgia-Tech games on the court.

This is the first year in several that no former Georgia player is numbered among the A. A. C. players. There has been for several years at least one former Georgia player wearing the colors of the A. A. C. but those places have been filled by ex-Tech and Oglethorpe stars this year.

Although the reserves are expected to get into the lineup tonight, Coach Bean will take no chances and start his veteran lineup of Stephens, and Brewer at forwards, Cy Bell at center and Captain McCrory and Pinkey Bynum at guards.

Duverney, leading light heavy-weight fighter from Riverside Military Academy, has met his match. Duverney, be it known, has made a habit of socking his opponents of the past with mighty socks, incidentally winning his bouts.

But Duverney has met his match. It all came about in the feature bout of the Atlanta Athletic Club's amateur boxing card in the club gymnasium Friday night. Duverney tried to match licks with Bill Carpenter, from the Georgia Military Academy's stable, and fell short of gaining a decision by several stiff jabs.

Carpenter who, according to the Carpenter who, according to the weight sheets, just matched Duverney in the matter of poundage with an even 166 pounds, had heard of his opponent. And he started from the first bell to slice bits from the reputation of his opponent.

The bout was well worthy of its spot on the program. It was a slamming battle with more than the usual run of skill intermingled with the willingness to stand up and slap out, willingness to stand up and slap out, taking one if necessary, but giving one at all costs.

Carpenter was given the decision at the end of the third round by a unanimous verdict which proved popular with the fans.

The co-feature bout, in which Hollis Morris, of the A. A. C., was to have met Gomilla, of Riverside, was called off by mutual consent. Morris, who is to carry the Tech-Georgia feud to the ring on February 18 when he meets Roy Lumpkin, ex-Tech gridder, is working for that battle and was believed to be too experienced for his younger opponent. younger opponent.

The greatest "hunch player" in golf is Gene Sarazen. When Sarazen becomes enmeshed in a hunch he is harder to stop than a simoon. Especially if he can justify the hunch from some past experience. Here is just one example. Back in 1922 at Skokie in his third round of the open championship Sarazen went out in 43 and took a 4 on the tenth hole. This totaled 47 strokes for 10 holes and practically chucked him out of the championship. He figured he was out until he rammed in a 50-foot putt for a 3 early in the final round and then finished with a 68.

In the recent Agua Caliente $25,000 tournament, first prize

In the recent Agua Caliente $25,000 tournament, first prize $10,000, Sarazen again seemed to be out of the money. In his third round he was out in 41 and he started home with a 6. Once again he had taken 47 strokes for the first 10 holes. And then he suddenly recalled the Skokie incident of eight years ago. "The situation is just the same," he said to Johnny Farrell. "I had taken 47 then—and won. I've taken 47 to here—and I'll win again." And once more in the last round Sarazen finished with a 68. When Sarazen hits his strides he isn't worried about any big names who may be leading him. He was 4 strokes back of Bobby Jones, with 18 holes to play, at Skokie. He was well back of Horton Smith at Agua Caliente. But not even the shadow of a Bobby Jones or a Horton Smith meant anything across his path, Bobby Jones or a Horton Smith meant anything across his path, once he decided fate had picked him to win.

The stocky Italian can ride fast and hard, once he makes up his mind shoot the works. But here and there he has also thrown away chances to win after apparently deciding that it wasn't his time to arrive in front.

One bad hole may turn him into a careless entry. Or one bad hole may send him spinning along under par. It all depends upon what his hunch is at some particular point.

Johnny Farrell Returns.

The open champion who beat Bobby Jones a stroke in the famous play-off at Olympia fields in 1928 is all set to go again through 1930.

golfed condition in 1929, but on his last western tour he struck his old pace again and he will bear watching this season. He came near winning three big tournaments out west—one of them came near winning three big tournaments out west—one of them the P. G. A.—but in each case his over-eagerness to land in front cost him his chance. After an off year it meant a lot to the Quaker Ridge pro to bag another big money. In fact, it meant too much at the time, for each case he found himself trying just a little too hard to hurry his come-back. As it is Farrell found that both his game and his health had returned and this will mean new confidence for the campaign ahead.

Farrell expects to start in the main run of southern tournaments, twing all Florida shows where the Le Gorse open a $15,000 party.

featuring all Florida shows where the Le Gorse open, a $15,000 party, will be the big shot. Farrell and Sarazen will again play together in the four-ball championship and they will be a hard pair to take.

A Unique Challenger. Max Schmeling is a unique contribution to pugilism. Picked to face the winner of the Sharkey-Scott meeting at Miami, the German heavyweight still remains in the mystery class without having taken a hostile swing in more than six months. One German paper says he has become "too fat and too effeminate." Another says he has a bad ankle, injured in a motor accident, that will cost him his speed. Bad ankles don't bound back in a week or two. Whether or not he is fat, effeminate and crippled, no challenger in ring history on his way to a final test has kept so far away from his profession. One or two hard fights after the Pau-lino battle would have made Schmeling a big favorite against any heavyreight now fighting.

As it is he has undoubtedly gone back a lap or so and no one seems to know snything about him beyond a guess.

If Scott should out-stab Sharkey a Scott-Schmeling battle for the heavyweight championship would be enough to show just where the heavyweight situation is for 1930. Under the circumstances even a Carnera or a Campolo can't be laughed out of the picture.

The Real Competitor.

The golf professional is still the leading competitor of the lot when it comes to taking a chance. He isn't guaranteed any fancy prize money for which he may offer about 20 cents' worth of effort in return. He collects only what he earns against the hardest brand of competition. He pays his own way and he has to beat a big number of stars to finish inside the money. If his work flops, so does his bank account.

Some day the fight game, for one, may come to the same principal of paying off. When this happens you will see some fighting worth a bird's-eye view at least.

The affair provides a strange commentary upon the business of fisticuffs, coming as it does at a time when two serious minded pugilists are preparing to fight at Miami for what each fondly hopes will prove the heavyweight championship of the world. It looks as though, to revert to Shakespeare again, all the ring's a stage, and this gigantic clown, Primo of Venice, is the real champion, after all.

The holding company has shipped Carnera by fast freight to St. Louis, where the Missourians will be shown something Tuesday evening when Primo swings his amazing bulk into action against a hapless young man known as Buster Martin. One word of warning to the Missourians may not be amiss. Let them get there on time and not drop their programs when the gong is about to ring. Dempsey Criticizes Fight at Miami

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(P)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight world's champion pugilist, who returned here today with his wife, Estelle Taylor, of the films, for a fortnight's sojourn in California, criticized the matching at Miami of Phil Scott and Jack Sharkey. Dempsey said the Britisher had done nothing to entitle him to a fight with Sharkey, and that he believed Otto Von Porat would have knocked Scott out in their battle in New York, had not Dempsey been forced to award the decision to Scott on a foul.

The former champion said he had no plans for entering the boxing game here, that he had come west to celebrate his fifth wedding anniversary and attend to some business matters.

Le Roi S'amuse.

Now that Joe Zelli has left Paris for Hollywood, and it is hardly probable that the King of Jimjamastan is coming back, they can tell the fale.

This is not the king's real title. That must be concealed for reasons of state, now that the naval conference is on. Not that the King of Jimjamastan has any navy to be cut down, for his subjects only recently divided the kingdom with him and gave the king the outside.

Ekingdom with him and gave the king the outside.

But when the king was in Paris they wanted to show him a good time for diplomatic reasons. The minister of foreign affairs told the king in polite French to go as far as he liked and that the Eiffel tower was the limit. The same went for the Queen of Jimjamastan and also the brother of the king, who was a prince of the royal blood. I regret to say that the brother of the king was known as Prince Goofy in Montmartre and other places, that being as close as some of the boys could come to his real name.

It was very necessary that the king should be shown a good time, and they were planning to take him over the royal hurdles and put him through the third degree of the goat when he reached London. This king seemed to have something on everybody in Europe and the entente was afraid that he would spill the beans and turn loose a few of the ROUGH.

It was one of the roughest games that has been played in prep circles in years. Three players were banished because of roughing, two others were put out because of four personal fouls and a total of 28 fouls were called during the 40 minutes of play. Katz, Boys' High forward, and Herdy. Tech High guard, were banished late in the second half and as the two walked from the court, another Tech High guard, Boyd, was asked to leave the game. Scott, of asked to leave the game asked to leave the game asked to leave the game. Scott, of asked to leave the game asked to l phoney key to the city and let him try to open something with it.

The government made it very clear that nothing was too good for this king and that the same went for the queen and the royal family. France was a republic, but this king had four aces up his sleeve in the Balkans, the Himalayas or some important mountains.

The queen got up early the next morning while the king was still in the royal hay at the hotel, the same sort of hay that had been slept on by Louis Ouartz. Attended by a few dozen maids of honor she took a stroll down the Rue de la Paix and looked in at a few of the windows. Then she went back to the hotel, but the entire royal troupe was back in a few minutes.

Every one of them was carrying a brass coal scuttle and the queen was carrying the biggest. They went into the shops and filled their scuttles with watches and assorted bijous. The queen made it quite plain that she liked pretty things. After that they went to Christoff's, where hey sell lingerie, and the queen, being husky, like all of the first ladies of Jimjamastan, carried off in one armful enough underwear of silk to keep her warm even if she had a hurry call to join Commander Byrd at the south pole.

The minister of foreign affairs tore his hair and ordered another orps of pressmen to work making francs. By noon the queen had her chambers full of royal junk. Fortunately she had no zests for antiques. She specialized in expensive alarm and cuckoo clocks.

The King Takes the Air.

When the king got up in the morning the first thing he wanted was an airplane ride. It seems that they had heard of Lindbergh even in Jimjamastan. It sounded simple, but it became complicated. of Jimjamastan could not sit beside a common aviator, even Georges Carpentier. An aviator could not sit with his back toward the king, even if he continued to say "Excuse me, king," all through the ride. Court etiquette of Jimjamastan forbade it and the king was carrying Jimjamastan etiquette wherever he went. So was the queen. So was Court etiquette of Jimjamastan forbade it and the king was carry Jimjamastan etiquette wherever he went. So was the queen. So was the prince. And so was the king's old man.

Finally they got hold of an aviator who could fly backwards in a specially constructed seat. They do say that the minister of foreign affairs was contemplating asking the ace to nudge the Eiffel tower, if possible, and to dump the king into the Seine. But that, too, is a state secret and I will be accused by the prefect in a specially constructed seat. They do say that the minister of foreign affairs was contemplating asking the ace to nudge the Eiffel tower, if possible, and to dump the king into the Seine. But that, too, is a state secret and I will be accused by the prefect of police of being too gabby and lose the French wisa if I do not stick to the facts.

The aviator was tipped off to keep the king up in the air as long as ssible. He seemed safer up there and the Bank of France seemed a lot safer, too. They were afraid to land him anywhere near the Bourse, so they got him back to the hotel.

Dropping in for a friendly call on the queen, with whom he still was on speaking terms despite the fact that they had been sharing the same throne for a number of years, and it was a hard throne at that, being carved out of ivory, she tipped him off to the Rue de la Paix and the king started out with a couple of brass coal scuttles to collect souvenirs. His taste ran to watches and bracelets. He went back to the hotel with both arms protected m the cold by rims of diamonds.

The minister for foreign affairs consoled himself with picturing what would happen when the king of Jimjamastan hit the Tower of London and saw the Kohinor and some of King George's souvenirs. The Prince Is Beaned.

which seems to be the rising hour for the Prince of Jimjamastan. that time the Rue de la Paix was locked as tight as Maiden Lane in New York. So the prince rode in a car of state to Joe Zelli's on the slope of Montmartre. The order had gone ahead that the prince was to have the house if he wanted it and to keep the grape juice flowing for the boys in

But it seems that the religion of the Prince of Jimjamastan forbade the use of wine, so the prince was having a rather dumb time, even though Joe Zelli showed him into the royal box. This may be the reason why the boys called him Prince Goofy. It was a bitter cold night and the prince, getting ready to depart, looked around for something to cart off as a souvenir. The court etiquette of Jimjamastan required that every member of the royal family on leaving any place must take something away with him. There was a hot stove in the back room of Zelli's that attracted the favorable notice of the Prince of Jimjamastan.

To the astonishment of all of the boys in the back room the prince lifted the stove to his back and started to walk out with it. It was at this point that Joe Zelli forgot diplomacy. He reached over and clipped the prince on the chin.

"He must be a phoney," said Mr. Zelli. "Prince or no prince, a guy who would take a hot stove is no gent. Besides he could have had the cash register."

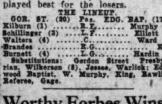

cash register."

The action of Joe Zelli created consternation in diplomatic circles. It was felt that this faux pas would lose forever for France the friendship of Jimjamastan. The minister for foreign affairs expressed great indignation but he only fined Joe the drinks for the boys in the back room. Fortunately the incident was hushed up so that Jimjamastan did not declare war. But the stove at Zelli's ever since has been kept padlocked to the floor, even when red hot.

As Joe says. "You never can tell when the member of some red."

As Joe says, "You never can tell when the member of some royal family might drop in."

Athens High Beats N.A.P.S.Team, 14-12

Athens High school girls' basketball team won a close, hard-fought game from the North Avenue Presbyterian school team Friday night on the Henry Grady court. The score was 14 to 12 and the game was as close as the score.

Miss Smith, with 13 points, led for Athens High and played a splendid game at forward, while Miss Marable was excellent on the defense. Miss Fugitt, with 10 points, led the North Avenue team in scoring. The team as a whole played a good game.

Hunter took a dull match from Perrine G. Rockafellow, of New York, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5. Seligson won from J. Gilbert Hall, co-favorite with Hunter, of South Orange, N. J., 6-4, 7-5, 1-2.

Veteran Athletic Manager Says Foe Was Far Too Overconfident Last Season.

Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOUNT PLYMOUTH, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—It was raining and Connie Mack, manager of the world champion Athletics, sat gazing out upon the downpour from the lobby of his resort hotel here. JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 7 .- (AP)-The Association of Southern Agricul-tural Workers adjourned its 31st annual convention here today after writcomprehensive prescription for the ills of the southern cotton farmer with the following prime ingredients:

Faith in the federal farm board.
An immediate drastic reduction of cotton acreage to a figure not in excess of 40,000,000 acres.
The development of a longer staple cotton which will command preferred price on the world market.
A new and distinct basis for cotton prices, based on the length of the staple and its value in ultimate use, rather than on the bulk weight of the commodity.

Research similar to that of industry to determine wider uses for the agri-demand.

The association elected as its new president Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala., an ardent advocate of acreage reduction and the staple price basis. He succeeds Dr. Wilmon Newell of Gainesville, Fla. Atlanta was chosen as the next convention city.

Several evenings before the house party disbanded, the young Englishman again referred to Meriem's story of her life in the jungle. There was one thing he wanted definitely answered before he committed himself to the plan he was considering. "Who was Korak?" he asked. Meriem laughed: "I used to think he was an ape—but now I know he is a MAN," she answered, with emphasis on the last word. "A white man?" persisted Baynes. "Was he your—er—?" ROOMS AND BOARD

The last evening they were to be together Meriem sat out a dance with Baynes under the tropical moon bathing the verands. She had been listening entranced to his stories of London and Paris, all like fairy-tales, to her fascinated ears. After a short silence he drew closer and bent his lips close to her face. He put his arm about her and she did not draw away. "I love you!" he whispered. She did not reply. "Tell me," he said, "that you return my love."

This notice is in accordance with the Act of the General Assembly of Georgia approved Aug. 15, 1922. DETROIT, Feb. 7.—(R)—A prediction that Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the Detroit crime and bomb board, recent target of machine gun gangsters, eventually would be shot to death by out-of-town hoodlums, furnished a climax for a mass of sensational and contradictory testimony before a police trial board here today.

The prophecy was made by Detective Adolph Van Coppenolle, defendant in the case before the board, who said that he is convinced that Garvin will be slain by members of the "Bugs" Moran gang of Chicago and "an Eagan rat" of St. Louis.

Van Coppenolle is being tried for conduct unbecoming an officer before a board organized by the new police commissioner, Harold H. Emmons, for the purpose of digging into the amazing stories of intra-departmental plots which were circulated and credited to the detective shortly after the shooting of Garvin on January 2. Following a meeting of the Atlanta board of firemasters Friday afternoon, several members, who declined to be quoted publicly, stated they had heard that such action might be precipitated unless the borough puts into effect more stringent regulation of hazards.

John W. Alexander, local capitalist, had pending before the board a petition to be permitted to store a fleet of automobile trucks in a wooden building at 49-12 Alabama street, S. W. This petition was denied by unanimous vote.

It is certain that the matter will be taken to the floor of council at the next meeting of that body, February 17.

Several months ago certain restrictions were removed during renovation of buildings adjacent to the newly erected Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, but council recently adopted new fire ordinances, which Councilman William E. Sharply conflicting opinions on the question of scientific examination of criminals were offered Friday by two Atlanta authorities who were keenly interested in the findings of a Detroit court published in ne Constitution Friday morning.

The Detroit jurist, whose conclusions were supported by a psychiatric study, told news agencies that out of 100 unselected felons only three "had no essential mental defects." One eminent Atlanta psychiatrist, for ethical reasons unwilling to be quoted, gave it as his opinion that 80 per cent of the criminals who are haled into court are "mentally

The Constitution asked Judge E. E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, and Dr. Goodrich White, Emory University psychologist, to give their views. They follow:

"Defective Criminals Only Small Per Cent."

"Only a very small percent-age of criminals are mentally de-fective, as I understand the meaning of that phrase," Judge Pomeroy said.

"I do not think a psychiatrist necessary in all cases; in fact, I do not think they are essential save in those cases where there is some manifest evidence of derangement.

"Our luries usually reach sound conclusions when insani-ty is pleaded in extenuation of crime. The judges, too, observe criminals closely and take the mental condition into account as
